

INKJET FINE ART & GALLERY WRAP PRINTS

There are two ways to order prints: (1) From the shopping cart from one of my Sports/Events galleries, or (2) directly from me. As to prints ordered through the Sports/Event galleries, I have partnered with a professional laboratory to produce prints of exceptional quality at affordable prices. When you place an order the lab first contacts me for approval before proceeding with the job. I personally inspect the camera files to insure optimal sizing, density and color correction before approving your order for printing. Your order will be approved within a day and will usually print and ship within a day of approval. Your satisfaction is guaranteed.

You can also order custom prints directly from me. With the exception of proof books, prints offered as part of a wedding package are personally printed by myself.

Though my wedding clients are provided with a DVD (at full resolution) of all camera files and therefore can go to any service provider for prints, my Fine Art inkjet prints are of exceptional quality and archival permanence. I've been involved with print making since age 14 starting with my first darkroom. I still print black & white (silver-halide) prints the traditional way. However, in recent years, advances in digital and inkjet printer technology have resulted in print output that approaches traditional black & white silver-halide prints with respectable archival permanence ratings. Digital/inkjet color prints are altogether superior to color prints produced by traditional (wet darkroom) means.

I was highly influenced by Ansel Adams. Ansel believed that exposing the image was akin to drafting the musicians' score. However, the print was the "performance." As Ansel put it: "I have often said that the negative is similar to a musician's score, and the print to the performance of that score. The negative comes to life only when 'performed' as a print." Ansel Adams, The Print, Little Brown & Company, 1983 edition, pg 2. Of course, in today's digital world, a good part of that "performance" takes place in front of the computer (the modern darkroom) in post-processing. However, to assure the highest possible quality of output, that attention to detail needs to be carried through the actual print making process itself.

My inkjet prints are currently produced on a Hewlett-Packard Designjet Z3200 printer. Wilhelm Imaging Research, a respected authority in the field of print permanence, rates print permanence (that is, how long a print will last before any noticeable fading) to be in excess of 200 years for papers and inks which I currently use on this printer. You can read the details of his research at the following link: <http://www.wilhelm-research.com/hp/Z3200.html>

I offer my prints on both Hewlett Packard Artist Matt Canvas and on Hahnemuhle Photo Rag Baryta paper.

CANVAS & GALLERY WRAP CANVAS PRINTS

Canvas Gallery Wraps are printed on premier art canvas and wrapped around a 1.5” wooden stretcher frame. Gallery Wraps come ready to hang and are perfect for displaying anywhere including gallery, home or office. Premium materials and inks are used to produce images with high archival permanence, smooth tones and rich colors.

FINE ART PHOTO RAG PRINTS

Images are printed on Hahnemuhle Photo Rag Baryta fine art paper. This item consists of 100% acid free cotton on a gloss base. Prints exhibit a broad tonal scale with deep, rich colors. The premium materials and inks used insure high archival permanence.
